ABOUT RHYTHMIC FORCE

Rhythmic Force is a nonprofit indoor percussion organization located in Austin, Texas. (Texas Tax ID #32019030041) The organization was formed in 2004 to benefit high school students and young adults who are not involved with indoor marching percussion during the spring semester. In 2009 Rhythmic Force was announced as the official drum line to the Austin Toros basketball development team to the San Antonio Spurs. During the same year, Rhythmic Force expanded into three different aged groups and expanded into the Round Rock area; Youth Percussionist, EX-34, Performance and Production.

Rhythmic Force aims to create a positive atmosphere of cooperation and teamwork with its students. The organization strives to create a competitive spirit among its members by seizing life and giving deserving students a chance to experience diversity through performance. The students of Rhythmic Force will be taught by educated and well-informed staff members who will expand their horizons with innovative teaching techniques. This will provide the students with an opportunity to hone musical talents in order to succeed as a high school musician and possibly even continue in college. More importantly, Rhythmic Force hopes to create tomorrow's community leaders by showing these young students what they can accomplish with the power of hard work, discipline and a positive attitude.

2012 SEASON

During the 2012 season, Rhythmic Force's goal is to expand our reputation within the community and to build support of continued music education outside the classroom. To achieve our goal, Rhythmic Force will be performing at different venues in and around the Austin, Texas area. During this period other students, who might consider joining our organization in the future, will have an opportunity to see how our organization operates. Rhythmic Force - Production will make its debut at Texas Color Guard Circuit (TCGC) competitions this year, and will compete at different locations in central Texas. In the future Rhythmic Force plans to also register to compete nationally in the Winter Guard International (WGI) competitions.
